Subject No. 78.
Tank repair contracts should be given to local men.

Summary of discussion.—Contracts for the repair and restoration of tanks should be given, as far as possible, to local men interested in the tank and in its security and efficiency. They are, as a rule, given to outsiders who have no interest in the tank and who only look to the profit they can gain by the contract and are thus under a temptation to turn out bad work.

Dewan's reply.—This has often been represented before and the order exists to give preference to local men. But the complaint on the part of the Public Works Department Officers is that local men do not come forward to take up such contracts, as the representations here made imply. The rule exists, and in any case in which it is not observed by local officials, the matter should be brought to Chief Engineer's notice when it will be duly examined.
